

Princeton and Harvard Evenly Matched as They Clash to Break Football Tie of Two Years

Both Coaches Confident of Victory on Eve of Big Battle

Tiger Veterans Will Be in Line-Up; Record Crowd Is Expected; Teams in Final Work-Outs in Jungletown Stadium; "Hardest Game of Season"

Special Dispatch to The Tribune
PRINCETON, N. J., Nov. 4.—The Tigers, of Princeton, with all preparation completed, settled down to-night to await the appearance tomorrow of the maroon-clad warriors of Harvard for the most important clash between the two teams in the last ten years. The stage is set for a royal battle, each team determined to carry away the honors of the game that is to settle the gridiron tie of two years' standing.

Tigertown is a bedlam of excitement on the eve of the annual clash. The streets of the little city and the university campus are lined with hundreds of alumni as well as excited undergraduate followers of both teams. All day long the roads leading into Princeton have been crowded with automobiles bringing football fans and every train has been crowded. A record attendance, expected to be well over 50,000, is forecast by the early arrivals and heavy demand for tickets. The very atmosphere is permeated with the enthusiasm and determination of the rival student bodies and hopes for breaking the tie are expressed on all sides.

Great Battle Expected
The battle to-morrow promises to be the greatest in the history of Harvard-Princeton contests. Both teams are in top condition and have been primed for several weeks for this opening clash of the "Big Three" series. With Don Lourie at the helm, the Tiger eleven had their final work-out this afternoon on University Field. Coach Roper first sent his charges through a fast signal practice, and then had the men running down the field under the punts of Lourie, who will handle this phase of the game to-morrow. The remainder of the afternoon, as far as the varsity was concerned, was given over to drop kicking by Ken Smith, who again and again sent the pigskin hurtling across the goal posts. He will no doubt be called into the contest if opportunity presents for a kick from the field.

The line-up for the game has practically been decided upon by the Princeton coaches. Alongside of Lourie in the backfield will be Ralph Gilroy, Hank Garrity and Jack Cleaves, the combination upon which old Nassau is placing her hopes, and which is appearing together for the first time since it was shattered by injuries in the opening game of the season against Swarthmore. Ed Stinson and "White" Snively will line up at ends, and Captain Kock and Bob Hooper will fill the tackle positions.

Lipscomb, who has crowded "Pinkie" Baker out of a position, will start as guard, and Al Wittmer, who has shown so well in the past two games, will play at center. Coach Roper announced that this line-up, with the possible exception of Lipscomb, will play the entire game unless injuries make substitutions necessary or there is need of a dropkick.

In case substitutions are called on Vanberg, Smith, Alford, McPhee and Stinson will be ready for backfield positions. Harvey Gray, Rutan and Tyson will take up the burdens of the line. Reserve linemen will be Von Schilling, Baker, Snyder, Griffin and Thompson.

Harvard Team on Field
The Harvard squad of seventy men arrived in Princeton this morning and went direct to Palmer Stadium, where behind closed doors Coach Bob Fisher gave the men the final work-out before the game.

The team is making headquarters in Trenton until after Saturday, in order that they may be away from the excitement of the contest. The Harvard regulars are intact for the battle, and while no official line-up has been announced the crimson team is expected to take the field as follows: Rocker and Macomber, ends; Ladd and Hubbard, tackles; Brown and Hubbard, guards; and Tierney, center. The veteran Buell will pilot the line, quarterback and the powerful Owen will be at fullback. Gratwick and Pitts will start as halfbacks. Clarke may start as center and Tierney in Ladd's place at tackle. The only members of the Harvard team who are expected to be out of the game are those who are suffering from injuries received in the Centre game last week.

All reverses of the season, including two losses to the Tigers and one to the sons of Harvard, have faded into oblivion by this time, and there is no thought but of the outcome of this crucial game between the old rival teams. The Harvard team is expected to be in top condition for the game, and since both Harvard and Princeton have good teams, they will doubt play harder than ever before.

Both Teams on Edge
Both Coach Roper and Coach Fisher are satisfied with the condition of their respective teams, but conservative statements are being made by each of them. Roper's final words before the curtain was drawn on University Field this afternoon were: "The team is in good shape and ready for the contest. To-morrow we play for two ties, and since both Harvard and Princeton have good teams, they will doubt play harder than ever before."

Coach Fisher's statement was: "This is the hardest game of the season. The men are in good shape, and I expect the battle will be closely contested and highly interesting. I have no predictions to make as to the outcome."

The Princeton undergraduates to-night entertained their guests from Harvard at the annual senior prom, held in the university gymnasium.

This was preceded by a concert of the combined Princeton and Harvard musical clubs in Alexander Hall.

Syracuse Team Invades Canada To Play McGill

First International Football Game in 41 Years To Be Under American Rules

MONTREAL, Que., Nov. 4.—McGill University eleven, having spent several weeks in practical study of American college football, took to the field to-day for its final scrimmage in preparation for its international game with Syracuse University in the Memorial Stadium to-morrow.

The Red and White gridiron meet Syracuse in its final game in preparation after forty-one years of international intercollegiate football. McGill engaged in a series of games with Harvard from 1874 until 1880, playing alternately in Montreal and Cambridge.

Chicago and Ohio State In Big Conference Game

CHICAGO, Nov. 4.—Victor of two intercollegiate football battles, Chicago was prepared to-night to plunge again into the "Big Ten" championship race to-morrow, meeting Ohio State in the most important game to date in the Middle West. Both teams have gone through the Western Conference season without a defeat.

While the chief interest centers in the Chicago-Ohio contest, considerable interest also is attached to the meeting between the undefeated Iowa eleven and Minnesota at Minneapolis. Another "Big Ten" battle will bring together Northwestern and Purdue at Lafayette, but both of these eleven have been upset in previous contests and little importance is attached to the outcome.

Illinois, beaten in three of its conference games, will clash with De Pauw at Urbana. Otherwise the "Big Ten" match will be idle, as Michigan, Wisconsin and Indiana will rest for important games a week hence.

Fighting Hoosiers Reach West Point For Army Contest

Record Crowd Is Expected for Notre Dame Game With the Cadets

WEST POINT, N. Y., Nov. 4.—The stage is all set for the annual battle between Army and Notre Dame to-morrow. What is expected to be the largest crowd that ever witnessed a football game at West Point is looked for, and the accommodation which the Army can provide will be taxed to the utmost. There are seats for thirteen thousand persons, and twenty thousand are expected to come if fair weather prevails.

The Hoosier crowd, thirty-five strong, arrived at noon to-day from South Bend. They were in charge of Knute Rockne, head coach. Rockne said to-night that his team was not as good as last year's Notre Dame eleven. Gipp is missed, but Rockne said he had a fighting team. In the limbering up which the Westerners got on the Army gridiron to-day they looked big and fast. It apparently is a typical Notre Dame outfit. Army will be minus its star back, French. Davidson, a varsity tackle strong in the forward, also will be missing.

But Army will present a better team than it faced Yale a fortnight ago. Charley Daly, Army's head coach, was non-committal as to the cadets' prospects, but there is an undercurrent of feeling among the followers of the Army eleven that it is due to win to-morrow. Both eleven will light out to-day. The field was heavy, due to the bad weather of this week.

The line-ups as given out by the coaches to-day will be as follows:

Penn Coaches Place New Player in Varsity Line

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 4.—The University of Pennsylvania coaches to-day tapered off the work of the varsity team. The majority of the regulars were excused until a brief signal drill and were kept out of scrimmage. The coaches felt that after the hard work held all week it would be unwise to drive the team further, with the Lafayette game here to-morrow.

The coaches made a shift in the Penn line, substituting Graf, a comparatively new player, for Cochrane, the heavy tackle. The varsity backfield will line up against Lafayette as follows: Rex Wray, quarterback; Miller and Whitehill, halfbacks; and Hamer, fullback.

Lafayette is a slight favorite to win the game.

Brown Drops Dartmouth As Football Letter Game

PROVIDENCE, R. I., Nov. 4.—Only men who play against Yale and Harvard this year will receive their football letter at Brown, according to a decision by the athletic board to-day.

The board, however, retains power to award a letter to men not participating in these two games by a unanimous vote upon recommendation of the coaching staff. Hereafter men to receive the "B" must have played against Yale, Harvard and Dartmouth.

Game for Harvard Freshmen

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., Nov. 4.—The first year's teams of Harvard and Princeton meet here to-morrow while the varsity eleven are battling at Princeton. The teams appear evenly matched, and will have the game in the stadium. Harvard has lost two of three starts, while Princeton has won only two out of five games.

The SPORTLIGHT by Grantland Rice

Prelude
Now come the tugs of war where prophets quail,
Where even Delphic Oracles might fail,
Where one may spin the whirling top of fate
And write with faulty fingers on the slate.

Since fools rush in where angels fear to tread,
Why should we pause because the net is spread?
"Lay on, Macduff," we hear the side lines say,
"What foolish figures have you got to-day?"

Note—Of the twenty leading games played last Saturday, counting results only, we slipped in four spots. The sixteen others ran true to form. Only Harvard, Georgia Tech, Syracuse and Columbia crossed us. While apologizing for our four errors, an average of .800 will be more than suffice us through the rest of this existence.

Hard and Easy
The hardest of these selections are the top three. The hardest of the top three is the Army-Notre Dame affair, which should be a young whirlwind, with the dope in full flight. Princeton, with her veterans in condition, seems to have the winning edge over Harvard, but there isn't much to spare. Lourie and Garrity will make a vital difference to the Tiger team, which, after a hard and rasping season, is now about due to rise up and get somewhere. Chicago will have a terrific duel on its hands with Ohio State, that has already pummeled Minnesota and Michigan. But Chicago is even stronger than it looked to be against Princeton, and with its strong defense should slip by.

Princeton and Harvard
There will be no sign of a championship clash between Princeton and Harvard, but there will be a contest of note, for all that, with two machines out seeking redemption.

Both know that a victory to-day will wipe out a multitude of October sins, and in view of two drawn years in succession, the clash will be carried out to the final play. The Tiger will have his first chance since 1920 to show what he can do with two of his main claws adjusted and sharpened.

It will be his first test with two of his leading stars backed in harness; and unless Harvard plays far beyond anything she has shown this season the Orange and Black should take its place above the Crimson for the first time in ten years.

For it was just ten years ago that Sam White recovered a Harvard fumble and romped to victory. And Princeton has never beaten Harvard since.

The Unbeaten
The unbeaten still face stormy seas through this month. Yale must still meet Princeton and Harvard. The Navy must face Penn State and the Army. Penn State must account for the Navy and Pittsburgh, two of the greatest machines football can offer.

Lafayette has an easier march with Delaware and Lehigh, barring the highway, and is almost sure to clean up along the route. Her victory over Pittsburgh will therefore lift her high in the gatherings of the elect, especially so if Penn State beats the Navy and Pittsburgh stops Penn State.

Cornell should romp through the rest of her schedule. Even at this soon stage we can hear distinctly the vocal catcalls bursting in December when the debate reaches its highest point.

For there will be at least three unbeaten teams, possibly four, and the passionate oratory will break all records.

There is a chance that Yale, the Navy and Penn State will each lose one more game, thereby adding to the twist. But if Penn State can stop the Navy and Pittsburgh, nothing short of a deluge of words will block her claim to at least one important prong of the Eastern seaper.

Leading Catholic Teams In Feature on Gridiron
The local scholastic football schedule for to-day is not as crowded with games as usual because of Election Day fixtures, but the feature attraction, the annual contest between Brooklyn Prep and St. John's Prep, will have an important bearing on the Catholic school championship.

The game will mark the opening of Ebbsfeld Field to scholastic football for the year, and is also the seventh meeting of Brooklyn's two big Catholic Prep schools.

Brooklyn Prep won every one of the six previous annual contests, being hardest pressed last year, when a thirty-five-yard drop-kick by Tommie Mattimore in the closing minutes just saved the game by 10 to 7. Brooklyn Prep has won four games this season without being scored on.

Evander Childs, of the Bronx, and New Utrecht meet in an interborough game at Commercial Field, and Adelphi and Poly Prep will resume football relations at Poly Field. Fordham Prep will meet Yonkers High School at Fordham Field in the only important New York game.

N. Y. U. Freshman Breaks Leg in Last Scrimmage
Harry Hargrave, nineteen years old, of 233 Park Place, Brooklyn, a freshman at New York University, received a fractured left leg yesterday during a football scrimmage on the university grounds. He was taken to Fordham Hospital.

Hargrave is a member of the N. Y. U. freshman football team. The scrimmage was preparatory to the game to-day with Bridgeport High School.

Fordham Fans on Bus Trip
More than one hundred students will accompany the Fordham University football team to Washington in big traveling buses. The Maroon plays Georgetown to-morrow. The students will leave the college campus at 12 o'clock noon to-day and will arrive to reach Baltimore to-night.

Peddie Eleven Wins Easily
HIGHTSTOWN, N. J., Nov. 4.—Peddie instantly defeated St. Benedict's Prep, of Newark, at football here this afternoon by a score of 41 to 0. Peddie scored in every period, the tally being 14 to 0 at the end of the first half.

Open Offensive Of Notre Dame May Beat Army

Columbia Certain to Put Up a Stubborn Fight Against Cornell Team

By Ray McCarthy
Football fans in New York City will not have to travel far to-day to see the real football played. Down in the jungle the Tigers will be battling with old John Harvard's eleven. That game will contain color as well as action. Big crowd, pretty girls, old grads, fine cheering and music. But so far as football and action are concerned, the contest won't be any better than the struggle on the West Point plains, between the Dasher Notre Dame team and the Cadets. This game also will have its colorful side in the dress parade of the West Pointers. No finer show than this is put on at any college.

Those who do not care to make the short journey to Princeton or to West Point need only go to the Polo Grounds, where Cornell and Columbia will meet for good football entertainment. There are few better teams playing the game this season than the "Big Red machine."

In the last two seasons Harvard and Princeton have played two tie games. Previous to each of these encounters it looked as if the Nassau students would be the victors. The same situation exists to-day. Princeton appears to have the better team and undoubtedly will be favored to win. But knowing Harvard's ability to compete in the pinches many spectators are inclined to believe the Crimson has an even chance.

Tigers Should Beat Harvard
However, with Lourie and Garrity in Harvard it seems to us has not an even chance, and if Princeton plays the game of which it appears capable, when Lourie is acting as pilot, it ought to beat Harvard by two touchdowns at least. Lourie gives the Tiger backfield the edge, and a comparison of forward lines will show the Tiger line to be much the better.

Notre Dame has featured the Army's schedule for several years back and never have the Westerners failed to come through with a scintillating exhibition, the kind that keeps the crowd on edge throughout the game.

One of the reasons is that Notre Dame generally has a fast, shifty, versatile team, one that can put on the game that is extremely efficient along with a fast close order attack. The fact that the team is usually composed of all-around athletes probably accounts for this. Take this year's eleven, Gus Desch, its new half-back, is a great hurdler; the ends, Captain Eddie Anderson and Rodger Riley, rugged, rangy fellows, are both star basketball players. They handle a football much like they would handle a basketball, are extremely adept in pulling down forward passes and are hard and sure tacklers. Most of all, not only is a wonderful back but a grand baseball player. Wynne is also a capable athlete.

Notre Dame is probably the best forward passing team in the country. That is true. But the reason it is so proficient in the open game is because it combines a close-order attack that is equally as good. Once a tack is drawn in to stop that attack the Westerners shoot a pass directly over the center of the line, the proper territory in which to throw passes. Those passes are thrown with the speed and accuracy with which a baseball is fired, and are pulled down by such players as Anderson, Kiley and Monaghan while in the dead run. It is a beautiful play when properly executed, and a pretty play to watch.

Play Sound Football
But that doesn't mean that the Notre Dame students have only the forward pass as a scoring play or that they cannot do anything else. They play sound football. And in meeting the Army they are meeting one of the best fighting teams in the business, an eleven that has a vicious, hard-running attack. Those who go to the Plains to-day will see a real battle.

The result looks like a toss-up. Cornell should have no difficulty beating Columbia. Many figure that as much as the Ithacans piled up a big score on Dartmouth, a team which beat Columbia, they will trounce the Blue and White by an exceptionally large score. That probably will not be the case.

Columbia is sure to put up a good fight, and the Ithacans will have nothing to gain by running up a top-heavy victory. The game here to-day, defeating Stevens Prep, 40 to 0. Holmes, of Montclair, registered four of his team's six touchdowns.

Barnard Eleven Wins
Barnard School's eleven defeated Trinity yesterday afternoon by a score of 20 to 6. Williamson, Farrell and Samper started for Barnard.

Fifth Victory for Montclair
MONTCLAIR, N. J., Nov. 4.—The Montclair Academy eleven won its fifth victory of the season here to-day, defeating Stevens Prep, 40 to 0. Holmes, of Montclair, registered four of his team's six touchdowns.

Barnard Eleven Wins
Barnard School's eleven defeated Trinity yesterday afternoon by a score of 20 to 6. Williamson, Farrell and Samper started for Barnard.

New Columbia Combination Will Battle Cornell Eleven

Coach O'Neill Plans to Offset Line-Slamming of Ithacans at Polo Grounds

Cornell and Columbia, time honored rivals on the football field, clash at the Polo Grounds to-day in the ninth engagement since their series began back in 1892.

Despite the poor showing made by the Columbia eleven in its last two games and the fine work of the Ithaca machine all season, football experts are not looking forward to a Cornell walk-over to-day.

It has been a difficult task for Coach Dobie to bring men back to the same mental and physical condition they were in when they faced Dartmouth last week, but the Cornell mentor stated yesterday after the team limbered up at the Polo Grounds that every player is in good condition and prepared for a hard contest.

It is never possible to forecast with accuracy how Coach Buck O'Neill will start his team against an opponent, but the line has all been worked during the last few days can be taken as an indication, a new combination will be selected to face Cornell.

The Columbia coach has been giving special attention to the linemen in order to offset the line slamming ability of the upstarters, and will be well fortified in this department in to-day's game.

Even if Columbia is routed by the Ithacans, New Yorkers will have some consolation in the fact that fully 25 percent of the Cornell players hail from New York city and its environs. Several will be remembered as players of exceptional ability on their school teams in past seasons.

While several of the Cornell regulars have been injured, the Cornell regular line-up is expected that Coach Gil Dobie will send all his stars against Columbia in the initial line-up. Lechler, Munn, Kaw, Ram, and Pflanz have all been worked lightly since the Dartmouth game and are certain to go into action in prime physical condition.

The probable line-ups:

Gargan Works N. Y. U. On Offensive Tactics

For the second day in succession Coach Gargan of New York University football team against the scrubs. Yesterday he paid particular attention to the offensive work of his team.

In order to perfect the new plays which he has been rehearsing he used the scrimmage as a means. The ball was given to the varsity backfield on the 10-yard line, and through a sort of spectacular plays they carried it the length of the field repeatedly.

This will probably be the last scrimmage through which the team will go in preparation for the Trinity game on Election Day. The team has just about attained perfection in both departments of the game. The forwards of the Violet who watched the practice yesterday predicted that the team would sweep to victory in all the remaining contests.

Fifth Victory for Montclair
MONTCLAIR, N. J., Nov. 4.—The Montclair Academy eleven won its fifth victory of the season here to-day, defeating Stevens Prep, 40 to 0. Holmes, of Montclair, registered four of his team's six touchdowns.
